

EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR POSITION

Visionary, collaborative, influential and dynamic is what best describes The Center for Legal Inclusiveness (CLI). An anchor legal community fixture in Denver, Colorado, CLI advances diversity in the legal profession by actively educating and supporting private and public sector legal organizations in their individual campaigns to create cultures of inclusion and equity. Over the past two years, CLI has been strategically aligning the organization to meet the changing needs of the legal community. After a successful two-year tenure by the current executive, the Board seeks a new and dynamic Executive Director who will lead the organization to flourish and succeed for years to come.

Historical/Program Overview

CLI is a 501(c)(3) nonprofit which provides valuable resources to help employers retain and advance diverse and female attorneys. Many of CLI's innovative programs and initiatives are national models. CLI's members include law firms, corporate and government law departments, bar associations and other professional legal organizations. Founded in 2007, the Center for Legal Inclusiveness offers a holistic and facilitative approach to creating inclusive workplaces for legal professionals.

The Opportunity

Reporting to its Executive Committee and Board of Directors, the Executive Director provides the vision and leadership to take CLI and its members to new and unprecedented heights. CLI seeks an enthusiastic leader who will capitalize on its assets and unfold the myriad of opportunities that exist. CLI has a strong Working Board and Advisory Board that are dedicated and committed to helping the new Executive Director succeed in their mission. This is an outstanding opportunity for an energetic and innovative individual who wants to unleash their leadership potential and leave a strong legacy.

Leadership

CLI's Executive Director will be passionate about advancing equity, diversity and inclusion in the legal profession. This passion will resonate throughout the Board, staff, members, donors and volunteers, allowing the Executive Director to tap into the strengths and talents of many. The Executive Director must possess strong interpersonal skills as they will be interacting with diverse groups of people.

- Implement CLI's member-centric strategic plan in a manner that is focused and results oriented.
- Cultivate and maintain CLI's relationships with its members and their constituents and providing guidance and thought leadership for their equity, diversity and inclusion programs.
- Serve as the spokesperson for CLI and representing CLI with a great deal of diplomacy.
- Continue to foster and cultivate relationships with other leaders of local and statewide legal organizations and stakeholders as well as develop new ones. The Executive Director will represent CLI in these coalitions as well as in others that contribute to its mission.

- Work with the communications and marketing team in developing campaigns that communicate CLI's vision, work, and community impact. Using good marketing acumen, the Executive Director ensures that CLI's image is presented with the utmost professionalism.
- Provide organizational assessment and customized consultation to assist legal organizations in building and implementing strategic plans for operating with equity, diversity and inclusion.

Management

The Executive Director will champion and value equity, diversity and inclusion to reflect the community served by CLI.

- Inspire and motivate members and staff as well as project consultants, board members, and key volunteers. Ensure strong internal communication and accountability.
- Cultivate a creative, collaborative and productive work environment and hold staff accountable to specific work plan metrics.
- Oversee all aspects of daily activities, including program planning, finances, fund development, community engagement, human resources, and marketing to ensure progress toward strategic goals.
- Work closely with the Board of Directors and Young Lawyers Division (YLD) Board. The Executive Director must have a demonstrated ability to engage, inspire, and motivate Board and YLD Board members to meet their responsibilities and serve the organization effectively.
- Keep Board members informed on the status of the organization and aware of any issues requiring their attention.

Financial Stewardship

The Executive Director, working with the Board of Directors, has ultimate financial responsibility for CLI and ensures good financial practices.

- Develop annual budgets and maintain costs in accordance with revenue to insure sound fiscal practices.
- Review monthly financials in preparation for Executive Committee and Board presentations.
- Participate in and review financial forecasting.
- Oversee the management of financial resources, ensuring CLI's fiscal stability and long-term viability.

Fund Development

The Executive Director creates a culture of philanthropy within the organization, including staff, Board members and volunteers.

- Lead the staff and the Board in furthering a diversified fundraising program including corporate sponsorship, individual donors, grants, special events, earned income, and planned giving.
- Cultivate new major donors and develop ongoing relationships with the current donor base.
- Update and implement a sustainable and effective “Membership Model” which ensures financial stability of the organization while cultivating new members and maintaining ongoing relationships with the current members.
- Oversee all aspects of the management and production of the annual Legal Inclusiveness & Diversity Summit, the largest conference on legal profession diversity and inclusion in the Rocky Mountain region. The Legal Inclusiveness & Diversity Summit is a one-day conference featuring national experts discussing cutting-edge diversity and inclusiveness topics which produces significant income for CLI.
- Oversee all aspects of the management and production of the annual Ball for All Gala, the primary fundraising event of each year.
- Develop and implement a diversified earned income methodology to generate fiscal stability.

Programming

The Executive Director understands and responds to changes in trends and best practices in equity, diversity and inclusion. They develop, present and/or implement appropriate programming for young lawyers, solo and small firms, law students, in-house and corporate law departments, government law offices, and large law firms. They are very comfortable presenting programs to our members and community stakeholders.

- Lead the development and enhancement of programs that address research, trends, and best practices in equity, diversity and inclusion in the legal profession.
- Guide program development from the conceptual state to full implementation.
- Guide staff in leveraging resources and delivering programs that are stimulating, educational and contribute to development of the “whole lawyer.”
- Manage, train and build capacity for volunteers to grow CLI’s reach and impact.
- Present trainings on equity, diversity and inclusion to large audiences and smaller groups.
