From our CEO, Sara Scott

It would have been really easy for us to freeze during COVID-19 and cease operations. Similarly, we could have ignored rallies and protests after George Floyd's murder because of a wayward argument that the legal community is less impacted. CLI did neither. We provided relevant content to our members and the community in the face of COVID-19 and then responded with vigor after George Floyd's murder with the Town Hall. CLI leads during times of discomfort and unrest and will continue to help our members and the legal community navigate these times.

It has been an honor to hit the ground running and organize all of these programs to serve the legal community. We have done a lot of work since I started – Summit videos for CLE credits, Getting it Right Summer Speaker Series, the Virtual Town Hall – and we will continue to do so. On the horizon we have our Virtual Summit entitled "Carrying the Momentum: Doubling Down on D&I efforts," and I am energized by the ideas and solutions this will offer our legal community.

I hope you will join us for the Summit this year, either as a sponsor or as a participant and feel the momentum CLI has and the energy we carry as we continue this critical work.

Thank you!

Speaking of Inclusion...

As we discuss inclusivity, many of us believe we are well-versed on the appropriate terms and language we should use to carry on these discussions (and as lawyers we pride ourselves on the same). But we often use the term "blind spots" (myself included) when referring to areas where we might have missed an important point. However the term "blind spots" is not inclusive, but offensive and the appropriate term is "dead angles." So let's commit to not passing on disrespectful language and to getting it right.
